

Globetrotting professional Stephen MacDonald has been a happy tenant in South Melbourne for the past 12 months:

"I'd had some horror experiences with estate agents before both in Melbourne and while working in London.

"She made everything so easy and was extremely efficient.

"Even the paperwork and keys were dropped off to me ... which when you're busy like me ... means a lot."

Monique Harpur relocated with her husband and three children from Sydney 18 months ago. They're leasing a property in Malvern for $900 a week.

"We're renting out our house in Sydney, so I'm very conscience of someone footing the bill when things need to be done.

"It feels like Cath would do anything for me ... she's very thoughtful of my needs and the owner's expense, which must be comforting to them.

"She's very efficient and always responds to my calls in a timely manner

"What's amazing is that she has a real working knowledge of the property. She helped us set the alarm system and was able to talk me through a hot water system check.

"I'm going to recommend Cath to another executive couple who are about to relocate to Melbourne."
